“ My friendship with Jay began in early 2000 when Bill Warren introduced Jay and I. Jay joined the team at Beacon Technologies and quickly became my right hand and close friend. Jay was so much more than an employee. He was a great friend and part of our family. Jay was an incredible example of living generously and there wasn't any task Jay wouldn't take on. He was always there to help.

One particular memory I have is that Jay would stay with me most every Christmas Eve to help wrap gifts for the family. One year our kids wrote letters to Santa and Jay decided to write letters back to each of them. He just had that much love for those around him.

Jay's love for the Lord was strong, as was his love for his family! Over the past few years we would meet at the Dunkin Donuts in Fruitland and chat with his mother-in-law was grocery shopping and talk about how things were going physically and spiritually. I don't believe many people knew how much medication Jay was on the help with pain or how much sleep he did without. Both were significant, but Jay's outlook was always positive.

Most importantly, I am glad Jay will spend eternity in the presence of God. He was never in doubt about where he would spend eternity.

Jay, I will miss you, and am glad I have been able to call you my friend!!
